

“Hey, can I see some ID.”

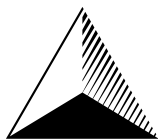

Nobody likes to walk into a room full of strangers, especially when they're handling your money. At Delta Trust, we know our customers and they know us.

We realize that everything to do with your money is private and personal. So, our local bankers take the time to give your accounts the personal attention they deserve. From cashing a check to structuring a family investment strategy, you'd be hard-pressed to find a more hands-on team. And, unlike some big banks, we do not consider your personal information to be a commodity to sell to other companies.

Talk to us about your financial future – we'll remember you and your family.
